New Japanese Meal Pre-Order Meal Option For Flights Between The United States And Japan

Customers Can Now Select Their Inflight Meal In Advance

In a continuing effort to enhance the customer experience by investing in its premium-cabin products, American Airlines implemented a new option allowing First and Business Class passengers to pre-order Japanese-style entrée.

Starting on Dec. 1 for flights departing on Dec. 2, customers traveling between the United States and Japan can pre-select Japanese-style entrée prior to their flight. The new pre-order option is free and is intended to provide added confidence and convenience to customers traveling to and from Japan who wish to dine on a Japanese-style entrée.

To place an order for a Japanese-style main meal entrees, customers can call American Airlines Reservation center at 03-4550-2111 / Toll free 0120-000-860 or Sales Support Desk at 03-4550-2102.

Lan Argentina And Lan Ecuador To Join oneworld

LAN Argentina and LAN Ecuador will join oneworld® as affiliate members in 2007.

oneworld is strengthening its position as the leading airline alliance serving Latin America with the addition of two more carriers in the region - LAN Argentina and LAN Ecuador.

The two newest carriers in the LAN group, Latin America's leading airline, will become affiliate members of oneworld as soon as the necessary joining technicalities can be completed. All parties have committed to ensure that this takes place as early as possible in 2007.

Both airlines will offer oneworld's full range of services and benefits. Members of other oneworld airlines will be able to earn and redeem all other oneworld benefits on both LAN Argentina and LAN Ecuador. The two airlines' networks will also be covered by oneworld's extensive range of alliance fares. With American Airlines and Iberia's extensive coverage of international routes into Latin American, and British Airways routes as well, oneworld is the obvious alliance of choice for traveling to, from, or within this region.

A Holiday Message from the Director of Sales - Japan

As in the previous year, we faced a difficult business environment in 2006 with the rise in fuel prices and the tightening of air security measures in August. However, despite these challenges, American Airlines recorded a profit in two successive quarters (2nd and 3rd) for the first time in six years. We were able to achieve this with the support we received from all of you. I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to all of you.

In 2007, American Airlines will celebrate its 20th anniversary of our first flight to Japan. Coinciding with this milestone, in January 2007 American Airlines will move from Terminal 1 to Terminal 2 at Narita International Airport. The new location at Terminal 2 dramatically shortens the time it takes to proceed from our new check-in counters to the boarding gates. We will also open a new Admirals Club lounge for member and First and Business Class passengers. Moreover, with Japan Airlines joining the oneworld alliance network in Spring of 2007, customers with connections to JAL will find it very convenient.

We are also enhancing service for our Premium Class passengers. Following the renewal of our First Class and Business Class menus this year, starting in 2007, we will begin installing Next Generation Business Class product providing even more comfort to our customers in the skies.

On behalf of the American Airlines Japan, I would like to thank you for your continued support throughout this year, and wish you and your family a very safe and wonderful holiday season.

Norio Inaba
Director of Sales - Japan
