oneworld® Alliance Celebrates 10 Years

ten years. ten airlines. oneworld.

10% discount on:

oneworld explorer, Circle Pacific, Circle Atlantic, Circle Trip Explorer, Circle Asia & South West Pacific, oneworld Visit Passes.

oneworld®, the leading quality alliance, is cutting the prices of its market-leading range of alliance fares worldwide by 10% for another 10 weeks to mark its 10th birthday - and the 10th anniversary of the addition of its first airline recruits.

The alliance initially offered the 10 per cent reduction for 10 weeks from 1 February - its actual birthday. This was the first time any of the global alliances had offered this kind of special promotion across its full range of consumer fares - and oneworld offers a wider choice of alliance fares than any of its alliance competitors. There's something for everyone who wants an extensive journey - from a captain of industry flying right around the world to a student backpacker exploring a continent or two.

It is repeating the special offer now to mark the 10th anniversary of the first recruits being added to the alliance. Finnair and Iberia joined oneworld's founding members American Airlines, British Airways, Cathay Pacific and Qantas on 1 September 1999. Since then, LAN, Japan Airlines, Malév Hungarian Airlines and Royal Jordanian have been added too. Mexicana will board the alliance later this year, and Russia's S7 Airlines in 2010.

oneworld's 10th Birthday Promotion

To celebrate oneworld's 10th anniversary, the alliance is offering a limited time offer of 10% off all oneworld fare in all cabins for 10 weeks starting 26 August through to 3 November 2009. Flights can be booked a maximum of 11 months in advance of travel. oneworld fare are included oneworld Explorer, Circle Pacific, Circle Atlantic, Circle Trip Explorer, Circle Asia & South West Pacific and the oneworld Visit Passes. For more information please visit oneworld.com/10years.

TSA Secure Flight Information

Transportation Security Administration

Passengers To Provide Date Of Birth And Gender When Booking Airlines Travel

The Transportation Security Administration (TSA), a US government entity, has announced the implementation of a new directive known as Secure Flight Program.

Secure Flight is designed to enhance the security of commercial air travel through the use of better watch list matching processes. It was developed by the US Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and it will improve the travel experience for all passengers.

Under the new Secure Flight policy, the TSA mandates that airlines collect specific information from passengers when making reservations. The required information is known as Secure Flight Passenger Data (SFPD). American Airlines is working closely with the TSA on Secure Flight and will comply with all government requirements ensuring the necessary information is collected in all reservations and sent to the TSA in advance.

What does this mean for you?

For reservations ticketed after September 12, 2009 customer will be asked to provide the following data:

- Full name (as it appears on your passport)
- Date of birth
- Gender
- Redress Number (if applicable)*

For more information about the Secure Flight Program, please visit http://www.tsa.gov/what_we_do/layers/secu_reflight/index.shtm.
