LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

FROM SNOW TO SAND

Welcome to the September 2010 issue of AmericanAirlines Travel.

In this issue, we take you to the fresh powder and wondrous scenery that symbolize Colorado and to some of the world's most challenging slopes in Park City, Utah, while exploring the culture, cuisine, and sights that make these snow-laden destinations so enticing. Looking to the south, our focus shifts to the sunny beaches and cultural diversity of Puerto Rico and its Caribbean neighbors.

In addition to our destination features, we present you with information on significant enhancements to the oneworld® alliance, including the pending addition of India's Kingfisher Airlines as a member, along with separate airline partner improvements that include the ability for travelers to redeem AAdvantage miles for flights on GOL in South America. American Airlines is also one of 12 international airlines partnering with UNICEF in the Change for Good® program, which donates unused currency and benefits children in developing countries around the world.

Don't forget to visit the AAdvantage Milestones™ website at www.aa.com/milestones for great travel advice and insights from other AAdvantage members. To keep up-to-date with your current balance information and all of your mileage transactions, log on to www.aa.com. And while you are there, sign up for AAdvantage eSummary and earn 1,000 Bonus Miles!*

We hope you find this issue of AmericanAirlines Travel helpful in providing you with valuable information about your AAdvantage account, and we thank you again for choosing American Airlines.

* Bonus miles do not count toward elite status qualification and member must remain enrolled for three months to be eligible for the bonus miles. Miles are posted to your account 4-6 weeks after the three-month period. Offer available until 12/31/2010.

SPREADING OUR WINGS

American Airlines enhances frequent flyer relationship with GOL, prepares to welcome Kingfisher Airlines to the oneworld alliance

American Airlines, GOL strengthen agreement

Expanding upon a relationship that began more than a year ago, American Airlines AAdvantage® members now have the ability to redeem AAdvantage miles for flights on GOL, one of South America's largest airlines.

In addition, American Airlines and GOL signed a codeshare agreement in December 2009 that will allow American to sell GOL flights to more than 25 cities in Brazil. Initiation of codeshare service is pending while final regulatory approvals are being granted.

The codeshare agreement not only adds more cities to American's network in Brazil, but also offers customers a smoother, more convenient travel experience. American is the largest U.S. airline that flies to Brazil, and currently serves the five major Brazilian cities of Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Belo Horizonte, Recife, and Salvador nonstop with 58 weekly flights from gateways in Miami, New York, and Dallas/Fort Worth. GOL offers service to 50 destinations in Brazil, more than any other airline. The new codeshare agreement allows American to offer a level of accessibility in Brazil unequalled by any other U.S. airline.

India's Kingfisher Airlines set to join oneworld alliance

Kingfisher Airlines became a member elect of oneworld after completing a formal membership agreement with the alliance, moving India's leading airline a landmark step towards flying as part of the world's premier airline alliance in 2011.

Since its launch in 2005, Kingfisher Airlines has established itself as India's leading air carrier in terms of domestic passengers carried, daily departures (an average of 383 daily departures), quality customer service, and innovation. Its addition will link India's most extensive domestic network with oneworld's unrivaled global network, creating the only alliance with airlines based on every continent. The agreement will add 58 cities to the oneworld map, all based in India, and will expand the network to 800 destinations in almost 150 countries.

Established oneworld members American Airlines, British Airways, Cathay Pacific, Finnair, Japan Airlines, Qantas, and Royal Jordanian already serve five gateways in India between them — Bangalore, Chennai, Delhi, Hyderabad, and Mumbai. British Airways will support Kingfisher as its oneworld sponsor through the alliance implementation program.

COLORADO

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Spectacular natural beauty, a rich cultural heritage, and four distinct seasons filled with activities make the Centennial State a destination with something for everyone.

Colorado is one state in the U.S. where any time is a great time to visit. Thanks to the towering Rocky Mountains and abundant average annual snowfall — Steamboat Springs, for example, gets around 348 inches of the white stuff each year — during the winter, outdoor enthusiasts show up in droves for the world-class skiing and snowboarding. The spring and fall — both of which actually overlap the ski season — along with the summer months allow for mountain biking, hiking, rafting down the Arkansas River, and numerous other activities that make getting back to nature as simple as walking out the front door.

NATURAL STATE

Both natives and frequent visitors know that in order to truly enjoy all that the Centennial State (so named because it became a state in 1876) has to offer, you need to get outside. And with 42 state parks, 13 national forests and grasslands, and 10 national parks and monuments, the land's unparalleled, accessible beauty is easily enjoyed. One of the best spots to take in the stunning surroundings is located 75 miles northwest of Denver at Rocky Mountain National Park. Three million visitors a year come to this wilderness, which covers more than 415 square miles, to bask in the breathtaking views of the Rocky Mountains, hike trails that lead through lush forests, and stand in admiration of the scenic landscape.

Another awe-inspiring area not far from Denver is Red Rocks Park and Amphitheatre. Famous as the backdrop for U2's Under a Blood Red Sky concert album and video in 1983, the 9,000-seat outdoor music venue is a sight to behold — even if you're not able to take in a live show.

ITINERARY

CITIES AND TOWNS

Many of the modern cities and towns of present-day Colorado have origins in the state's past as hubs of mining and ranching activity in the American West. Colorado's most populous city, Denver, is no exception. In fact, Denver was one of the first places in Colorado where gold was discovered in the 1850s. Since that time, the metro population has grown to encompass nearly 3 million inhabitants. And at an elevation of 5,280 feet (or one mile), the town has earned the nickname Mile High City. To experience Denver's rich cultural side, include the Denver Art Museum, Denver Zoo, and Denver Botanic Gardens — currently displaying 20 works by renowned sculptor Henry Moore — in your itinerary. And if shopping is your bag, head to Cherry Creek Mall for big-name department stores, or to the I.M. Pei-designed Denver Pavilions, a tri-level complex that combines shopping with entertainment that includes a bowling alley and 15-screen movie house.

Colorado Springs, or Little London as it was originally known, is another must-see destination with a prime position at the foot of Pikes Peak. The 14,000-foot summit draws people from far and wide to hike this natural wonder. During your visit, be sure to check out the 1,300-acre Garden of the Gods and its red rock formations.

But one can't make mention of the unique spaces and places that Colorado has to offer without acknowledging the ski towns that dot the state's landscape like Swiss villages. Locations such as Vail, Aspen, Hayden/Steamboat Springs, and Montrose/Telluride have long served as outdoor playgrounds for celebrities, locals, and visitors to rub elbows and shush side by side down some of the finest slopes in the world.

New editions to the ski slopes are created every year, and the 2010-2011 ski season promises to be one of the best in recent memory. Many popular destinations will be introducing new runs, and in the case of Vail, offering up a new chairlift and luxury property, The Ritz-Carlton Residences, Vail.

Visitors to Crested Butte find the quaint mining village to be one of the most accommodating for outdoor activities of any community in Colorado. With access to the finest extreme terrain during ski season and 14 miles of mountain biking trails bringing in riders over the off-season, the Butte's appeal lasts all year long. The resort also is home to the Mountain Biking Hall of Fame and features new attractions that include the Snowcat Driving Experience and Adventure Park, which contains an outdoor skating rink.

CUISINE

Much of the delicious food found in Colorado can be attributed to one word: homegrown. The fertile land produces peaches, squash, melons, tomatoes, cherries, and porcini mushrooms that are served up fresh in a number of restaurants across the state. Steak houses, Western cuisine, and wild game are also popular in Colorado, including bison, elk, quail, rabbit, and venison served daily at fine-dining establishments such as The Fort Restaurant in Morrison and Boulder's Flagstaff House Restaurant.

The rise of brewpubs has also helped put Colorado on the culinary map. In fact, Colorado boasts more breweries per capita than any other state. Included in this impressive list are the Gunnison Brewery, Breckenridge Brewery, and the state's oldest brewpub, downtown Denver's Wynkoop Brewing Company. Wynkoop opened its doors in 1988 and is perfect for relaxing with a Railyard Ale or Wixa Weiss and playing billiards on one of the second floor's 22 pool tables.

PARK CITY'S PERKS

A powder snow playground where the thrill of going downhill puts a smile on everyone's face — but skiing is just the start of the fun.

With their first run down any one of the trails at Park City's three ski resorts (or their initial experience at one of the area's terrain parks), skiers and snowboarders instantly move Park City to the top of their list of favorite places. Deer Valley Resort, Park City Mountain Resort, and The Canyons Resort offer some of the best — and deepest — powder snow in the world. Après ski, the restaurants, brewpubs, and clubs on the former mining town's Main Street give even the most exhausted skiers reason to summon up a second wind and keep going.

SPORTS

Nature gives Park City its edge. More than 400 inches of snow fall on the area's mountains every year, and Park City's resorts put that snow to good use.

Easily one of America's most elegant ski resorts, Deer Valley Resort offers 21 chairlifts to whisk skiers up to its more than 100 trails across six mountains, including the ultra-challenging Empire. Park Place at The Canyons Resort, Utah's largest ski resort, is one of America's most dynamic terrain parks; its urban design offers custom-made features to challenge snowboarders of every experience level.

But the city's resorts, just 36 miles from Salt Lake City International Airport, aren't just for black-diamond-level skiers. Their top-notch ski schools make Park City a perfect fit for people ready to step into ski or snowboard boots for the first time, and that includes even the youngest would-be skiers. Families come first at Park City Mountain Resort, with Kids Signature Programs — offered for children three-and-a-half and up — which feature small class sizes for skiing and snowboarding lessons along with other age-specific activities.

CUISINE

A surprisingly diverse food scene can be found in Park City. Come down off the mountains and step right into Mexico at El Chubasco, Japan at Yuki Arashi, or the Middle East at Reef's Kitchen. But no ski town would be complete without a perfect breakfast spot; the Morning Ray Cafe never disappoints, particularly if you're a fan of huevos rancheros.

One of Utah's most celebrated brewpubs, the Wasatch Brew Pub & Brewery, is a must-try for all suds lovers. Their Evolution Amber Ale pairs perfectly with the brew pub's bison burger.

GALLERIES

Park City's downtown is home to a wide variety of art galleries. Fine art collectors should head straight to the 43-year-old Meyer Gallery to peruse pieces by well-known artists. Those interested in contemporary art should start their gallery hopping at the Julie Nester Gallery. But if you would rather focus on Utah's natural beauty, reserve plenty of time to look through the photos on offer at Mangelsen's Images of Nature Gallery.

FLY AMERICAN AIRLINES TO PARK CITY American and American Eagle offer eight daily flights to Salt Lake City from Dallas/Fort Worth and Chicago. For complete flight schedules and to book your trip, please visit www.aa.com.

CAR – Rent a car from National Car Rental® during your trip to Utah and get a Free Weekend Day and 500 Bonus Miles.

Diversity reigns in Puerto Rico. Covering nearly 4,000 square miles, the Island of Enchantment features sandy beaches and cool caves; Spanish, African, American, and native heritage; and nightlife that sizzles with salsa dancing and shimmers on glowing kayak excursions. And for aficionados of the melting pot that is the Caribbean, the cultural influences of its neighboring islands range from French and British to Dutch and West Indian.

NATURAL ALLURE

Government-maintained beaches such as Luquillo Beach are among the most country's beautiful. Wilderness beaches include the geographically distinct Playa Mar Chiquita, highlighted by a coral reef and limestone cliffs. Rincón draws surfers to its shore, while Playa Carlos Rosario is a treat for divers and snorkelers.

There's nothing unusual about an island filled with beaches, but not many have the enchanting caves that Puerto Rico boasts. Las Cavernas del Río Camuy and its network of caves is the most popular place to go underground. That same 268-acre park is lush with virgin tropical forest, but El Yunque Caribbean National Forest is the island's largest. Waterfalls, native wildlife like the coqui tree frog, and 12 well-maintained trails attract casual and intrepid nature lovers. Dry forests such as the Guánica Dry Forest Reserve also dot Puerto Rico's landscape.

A MELTING POT

Native cultures, Spanish colonization, an African population, and U.S. territorial status have all played a role in shaping modern life in Puerto Rico. The varied dining options are reflective of its multifaceted history, as visitors can dine on everything from French to pizza to Spanish. A few fare necessities: Marmalade's Californian/French cuisine and Aguaviva's seaside Latino delicacies in Old San Juan, and in Luquillo, Pasta y Pueblo's combination of Italian, seafood, and local dishes.

NIGHT OF A THOUSAND ENCHANTMENTS

Making an evening of it in Puerto Rico can mean nightclubbing in Old San Juan, sipping tropical drinks in laid-back Rincón, rolling the dice at a casino in a San Juan resort, and shaking away to a salsa beat. Other worthy diversions are street festivals such as the weekly LeLoLai Festivals held throughout the island. Bioluminescent kayak trips off of Vieques and La Parguera light up the night naturally.

DIVERSE NEIGHBORS

Puerto Rico's adjacent islands are also a culturally rich bunch. The British came and left their mark most predominantly on the British Virgin Islands, but influenced the culture in Anguilla, Antigua, Barbados, Barbuda, Grenada, and St. Kitts and Nevis as well. The French share some of the prevailing influence in St. Lucia and still have a major presence in Dominica, Martinique, and St. Martin. In addition, visitors can go Dutch in Aruba, Bonaire, Curaçao, and St. Maarten. The U.S. Virgin Islands have a decidedly American yet tropical feel, while Trinidad and Tobago still give off a friendly West Indian vibe.

FLY AMERICAN AIRLINES TO PUERTO RICO American Airlines features 54 daily flights to Puerto Rico from 33 destinations.

PARTNERSHIP

CHANGE FOR GOOD

Program raises funds, hope for children in need

Formed in 1987, Change for Good® — an innovative partnership between UNICEF (the United Nations Children's Fund) and the international airline industry — is one of UNICEF's best-known and longest-running global fundraising campaigns. American Airlines has been the proud partner of the Change for Good program with efforts based in the United States since 1994.

Through this campaign, travelers on international flights can donate their unused U.S. and foreign currency to benefit the UNICEF program. These contributions are used to provide lifesaving assistance to the developing world's poorest, most vulnerable children. UNICEF has programs in more than 150 countries, including every country to which American Airlines flies.

Donations to the U.S. Fund for UNICEF can be made through any of the following four methods:

- Onboard select American Airlines long-haul international flights to/from Europe, Japan, China, India, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and Uruguay
- At select Admirals Club® airport lounge locations
- Via credit card on a secure UNICEF website page
- Through cash or check donations sent directly to the U.S. Fund for UNICEF. Donations of cash (any currency is accepted) or check (issued by a U.S. bank) can be sent directly to:
